A lady who had not been able, with any others, to see the eye of a needle for years, seen perfectly with the Diamond. Others, after a few weeks, are able to discontinue the use of spectacles entirely. For sale by Ballenger.

THE friends of Deputy Sheriff Chan. Jefferson, who was shot and wounded in the left arm last Tuesday night while quelling a disturbance among some negroes at Mayslick, will be gratified to learn that he is improving. The wound is more serious than it was at first thought to be. The ball entered the fleshy part of the left arm between the elbow and wrist and ranged upwards, lodging near the elbow. Charley Fields, the negro who did the shooting, has not been arrested yet. He made good his escape the night of the shooting, and has not been heard of since.

The audience at the opera house Thursday night were agreeably surprised at the musical talent displayed by the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. A. King, of Millwood, this county. Many in the audience had heard of her before, and they thought the reports had been greatly exaggerated. This thought, however, was dispelled by her performances on the piano Thursday night. In a conversation with her father yesterday, it was learned that his daughter's name is Hattie Calvert King. She was six years old the 3rd day of last month. She is remarkably bright and intelligent for one of her age. When brought before the audience Thursday night she showed no fear or embarrassment at all. The applause which greeted her would naturally be expected to frighten one of her tender years but such was not the case with her.

When asked to do so by her father, she smilingly bowed her acknowledgments in response to the applause which rang through the house. The natural musical talent she displays is certainly wonderful. She has never received any instruction at all. Before she could talk, she would lie in her cradle and hum a piece in an imperfect way as her mother sang it. Her talent became more noticeable as she grew older. Her playing on the piano Thursday, as we stated above, surprised those who heard her. Mr. King informs us that she can play with as much ease when blindfolded. Her parents will take her to Cincinnati next Tuesday in response to repeated offers from the proprietors of Harris' Museum. Mr. King offers to bring her to this city on the occasion of any concert in the future, when she will demonstrate that she can repeat on the piano any piece rendered, except the difficult.

FIXING LIBERTY'S LIGHT.

CHANGES TO BE MADE IN THE PRESENT METHOD.

The Brilliant Blaze of Fire Which Was Intended for the Torch by Mr. Bartholdi will be substituted for the one now in use. This Change Will Cost $15,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The unsatisfactory effect of the present method of lighting the Statue of Liberty has caused the authorities in charge of the matter to consider plans for changing the light. The electric lamp was given by the American Manufacturing company, who prepared to place the lamps on the balcony outside the torch.

It was the intention of President Goff, who presented the electrical appliances, to have on lamps of 5,000 candle power each suspended in the air, as on the Hall Gate tower. The effect of this system of lighting would be a blaze of light around the torch, and which could be seen for a distance of thirty miles, and would illuminate the entire statue to the base of the pedestal.

When the lighting of the statue was placed in the hands of the lighthouse board, Lieut. Meliss, who was in charge, decided not to put the lights outside the torch. A number of holes were cut in the torch and the lights were placed inside. The lenses were so regulated that the light could be made visible only at long range. By Lieut. Meliss plan the powerful light, by only being seen faintly from the harbor. From the batteryland the Brooklyn bridge it looks like a glow worm and loses the brilliant effect of a blaze of fire, such as was intended by Mr. Bartholdi.

To remedy the loss of light on the statue, Lieut. Meliss placed at the angles of the parapets lamps which were provided with parabolic reflectors to throw the light and illuminate the statue and pedestal. By a miscalculation in this the statue is shaded, and darkened by the protruding base, while the stone pedestal stands out brilliantly illuminated. The effect of the light in the torch is also to throw a shadow which obscures the head and shoulders of the statue. The unsatisfactory result of Lieut. Meliss' plan of lighting was predicted by electricians, and described before the torch was altered.

Gen. Schofield and the American committee now see the mistake made by the lighthouse board, and are endeavoring to rectify it. One project is to place a powerful lens by the light and reflect the same rays toward the battery. This change will cost about $15,000 and must be done at the expense of the lighthouse department. An objection to this plan is that whenever the reflector is placed it will cut off the light from that quarter. If the lens is put in so as to throw the light toward New York City it will obscure the light which now shines toward the northward and of States Island and the Jersey shore.

To a reporter a member of the American committee said: "It is my idea to have the electric lamps put outside the torch, so as to give a brilliant effect. As it now is the light is very feeble, except from a great distance. This is a mistake. It is very unfortunate that the statue is thrown into the shade. I had in mind to place a row of lights at the top of the pedestal, and in this way to brighten the effect. When the subject of lighting the statue came up, Gen. Schofield suggested that the matter be given over to the lighthouse board, and we acquiesced. From that time we had nothing to do with it. Whatever mistakes have been made are not ours. I feel sure that means will soon be taken to correct the fault. It is generally considered that the effect of the powerful light has been lost. I believe that Gen. Schofield is now considering the means of remedying the mistake of the lighthouse board."

JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

He is Confined to a Sick Bed With Several Serious Diseases.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—John Jacob Astor is seriously ill at his home, No. 335 Fifth avenue. For several days he has been unable to leave his house. Last night his handsomeness was in darkness, and a dim light in the lower hall and another in the sick room on the second floor. His physician is in constant attendance.

A reporter was informed that Mr. Astor has been suffering acutely from rheumatic gout for some time past, and the physicians feared complications of this trouble with appendicitis, that may have serious results. Mr. Astor, about four years ago, arranged his affairs with a view of avoiding testamentary litigation, and secured the family succession to the bulk of the Astor estate by transferring the enormous property inherited from his father, William Astor, with all its increase, to his son William Waldorf Astor, ex-minister to Italy.

The Unruly Apache.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—Mangus, head chief of the Chinle Apache, and thirteen bucks and squaws passed through this city under guard on route to Fort Marion, Pa. While the party were going through Colorado, Mangus jumped through the car window and ran some distance before he was recaptured. Then he obtained a knife and stabbed himself in the thigh, and was taken to a hospital. In the morning he attacked his interpreter, striking the man about the head with the handle of his knife. During the evening Mangus was taken to the hospital, and the party except the interpreter, who was left behind, and who followed on the next train.

Moody the Evangelist.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Since Rev. D. L. Moody came here last Saturday he has stirred up the Wheeling as the slave were stirred before to the tide of prayer and talked to the 700 converts for a half hour, and had a service of song and prayer. The prisoners were much affected. At 3 p. m. the First Presbyterian church, the largest in town, was so packed that the meeting adjourned for an hour to be moved to a skating rink. There the people were turned away. In the evening fully one thousand failed to get in the large rink. Wheeling never saw such a religious awakening in her history.

Samuel Johnson's Liberal Requests.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The will of Samuel Johnson distributes an estate of $250,000, most of which goes to his family and friends. For the erection of a bronze statue of Shakespeare in Lincoln Park, $10,000 is bequeathed; $25,000 to the Chicago Nursery and Hall-Orphan; $10,000 to St. Luke's hospital; $10,000 to the Chicago Orphan asylum; $10,000 for a gateway at the main entrance of the college yard, Harvard University.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Topics of the Times Given in a terse and spicy manner.
